THE CIVIL LITIGATION FIRM

Aviation

Harman Claytor's Aviation Liability Practice Group has offices in both Virginia and the Washington, D.C. area. Our aviation team assists international airlines, small commercial carriers, and their employees with myriad aviation-related claims, including contract disputes and personal injury claims. Airlines are subject to a number of state and federal laws and regulations, and navigating these claims can be a challenge. In addition to strong litigation skills, defending claims against airlines requires familiarity with industry terminology and unique nuances. Our aviation attorneys combine specialized knowledge of the aviation industry with our skills in navigating state and federal trial and appellate courts to achieve the best results for our aviation clients.
